Farm Union Head Calls For New World Trade Policies

CALGARY, Dec. 6.—(CP)——Carl J. Stimpfle of Edmonton, president of the Farmers Union of Alberta, said today trade policy now being followed by world nations will nullify farm organizations' efforts to get surplus food to hungry peoples of the world. Mr. Stimpfle spoke to an estimated 300 men and women attending the opening of the first annual convention of the Farmers' Union. "We have seen many economic changes take place this past year and because of the economic system throughout the world, the many problems we have hoped would be solved have become more aggravated," he said. "We have seen many economic and currency problems, not ironed out more other solutions would have to be found."

NEED AUTHORITY
 "We have reached a point where we have to consider the need of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers' boards with authority to deal and trade goods and services, and to set up similar boards with authority to disregard any and all trade agreements such as tariffs and so on—without regard to exchange rates when it comes to the disposal of our goods from other countries that can be used by the peoples of the world."

"This world affairs some industries that are now established but these must be disregarded because our economy is based on agriculture and is sustained by the products of agricultural products." Mr. Stimpfle urged the farmers not to criticize the Grains Exchange but to help it. He said the Grains Exchange was a chance to function. He charged the Grains Exchange was pulling out the Grains Exchange, and was causing grain marketing and wanted dealers to be "stampeded" by such attacks.

ARRANGE MEET
 To promote stabilization of livestock production and prices he was arranging a meeting of farm organizations, government departments of agriculture, and packing plant managers. Progress was being made on each a meeting and he hoped to be able to report before the convention ended.

The need of a strong farm organization was stressed by Mrs. M. E. Lowe, St. Albert, president of the Farm Women's Union of Alberta in her address. She said that many farmers were not interested when times were hard and were only interested when a "critical situation" presents itself.

Missed Visit Costs $5,000
VANCOUVER, Dec. 6.—(CP)—Shipping his regular Monday bank deposit for the first time in years last night cost Harvey R. M. Grauer $5,000 in a unique ferry made on his suburban Sea Island grocery store.

"Pirate-regs" made off in a small fishing vessel with a $5,000 point sale containing $5,000 in cash and cheques. A second strong boat containing $5,000 was also taken when the thieves failed to crack it.

"These thieves seem to know every move you make these days," complained Mr. Grauer, who said he attended a funeral in the morning of taking the money to the bank.

Alberta Rate Plan Under CPR Fire

Maritime Freight Advantages May Be Upset, Counsel Claims

OTTAWA, Dec. 6.—(CP)—Railways try to discourage but not to "destroy" competition from other carriers, F. C. S. Evans, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, said tonight.

As CPR senior counsel before the House of Commons transportation committee, Mr. Evans was questioned on that point by W. P. A. Targue, opposition chairman.

"The railways try to eliminate competition, but they are not destructive," Mr. Evans said. "They don't try to destroy competition."

Mr. Targue said he brought up the question because of the possibility that railways might try to keep rates as low as some points on the coast, where transportation "would not come around to these points."

H. P. Darling, transportation counsel for Alberta, said the "equalization" principle could be applied by amending the Maritime Railway act. The legislation granted a 20-per-cent reduction in maritime rates, absorbed by government subsidies to the railways.

"We don't mean to upset any freight-rate advantages already granted to the Albertans," added J. J. Fawcett, counsel for Alberta. "If we see the maritime level how we are going to equalize rates," Mr. Evans added. "Mathematically we cannot get equality."

A lively discussion ensued as Mr. Darling cross-examined Mr. Evans on Alberta's 300,000-ton brief which requested elimination of "unjust discrimination" in rates between the coast and the interior. Mr. Evans said the Maritime Railway act was already doing along these lines. Some of the railways' initial board of transport commissioners.

For the general enlightenment and for the good of the commonwealth, I would beg of my friend to place these proposals before the federal cabinet before the end of the year. He reiterated that Alberta would make any representation to the board on its inquiry into equalization at least until the commission had concluded its report.

The board is making the investigation on instructions given by the federal cabinet before the end of the year. He reiterated that Alberta would make any representation to the board on its inquiry into equalization at least until the commission had concluded its report.

WEST A UNIT Alberta contended in its brief played before the commission last night that the principle of equalization must be adopted as the first step in reducing the Canadian rate structure.

Western provinces are particular advocates of the equalization principle, contending that the west has a higher freight-rate than the east. Alberta also put forward a proposal to amend the Canadian Railway act to emphasize the need of transport commissioners to attack and eliminate "unjust discrimination."

When Mrs. Elizabeth Kirby heard a tremendous crash, she ran to her home in Bridgewater, P.E.I., she knows exactly what it is and goes to see what part of the house it is in this time. Four times in the last two years Kirby failed to negotiate the turn of the foot of the hill and landed in various parts of the Kirby home. Last night a truck ran into the living room, shearing off a portion of the front porch.

There will be no snowfalls in southern Wisconsin this winter. So saveth police chief F. M. Yea, who has signed to be the first snowfall, the number of days the moon is old, said answer. It's an old Indian method, he says. Last year and in 1947 there was no snowfall. In 1946 it was right on the button.

who let vital information reach the Soviet Union.

George Jacob Jordan, former Army Air Force major, touched off the inquiry with a report that he had seen a number of maps, documents, atomic materials and other secret items through the pipeline in Great Falls, Montana, where Jordan was lend-lease "expediter" in 1944-45.

Jordan alleged that he and names to back up his story in two interviews with commentator Fulton Lewis Jr.

In addition, Jordan said today he ripped secret U.S. radar equipment out of four Russian-bound transport planes in the spring of 1943 but that a fifth plane containing the devices eluded him and flew to Moscow.

He said the fifth plane left Washington in the spring of 1943, and he, as a Russian purchasing commission in Washington, was told that the plane was carrying a large quantity of atomic materials.

The names of such high wartime officials as the late Harry Hopkins, White House spokesman, and former vice-president Henry A. Wallace have been linked to the shipments, as well as Maj. Gen. Leslie Groves, the army's wartime head of the atomic project.

preceeded by groups who travelled slowly in gas-powered rail cars to spread tracks for evidence of destruction, attempts such as had occurred here three times within the past few weeks.

Trains were running hours late. One train, flying between Vancouver and Nelson, B.C., was eight hours late on arrival.

A CPR spokesman said most residents were content with the situation. He said that the CPR would be able to solve the Dooms problem which has plagued the west since the Kootenay farm district of southeastern British Columbia for 30 years.

"We were afraid of these fellows," he said. "We know how crafty they can be."

CALL SENIOR OFFICIALS Former Royal Canadian Mounted Police Commissioner Col. F. J. Meade and Provincial Police Commissioner John Shinnar arrived yesterday to take command of the situation. Other senior provincial and RCMP officials were expected to join them today.

Canadian Pacific Railway officials ordered a 24-hour guard mainline to be placed on the company's railroads and to the west.

Police kept their operations confined to a small area. Details were withheld of a plan drawn up at Victoria over the weekend by Premier Brown to go on after an emergency cabinet meeting.

Secretary said at the time he would not disclose information other than that a master plan had been evolved by the federal government to deal with the situation. Some residents believed the renewed Dooms problem was being solved at a form of protest against conviction of eight of their number on arson charges at a Nelson assizes last night.

Others were remained until next May for sentencing.

SEEK ENTRY TO TURKEY

At Krestova, near Nelson, Lebedev said upwards of 1,200 B. C. men have been signed to go to leave Canada for Turkey.

Lebedev said he had applied to the Turkish embassy in Ottawa for permission to settle in Turkey. The last word he received was that the application had been accepted and that he would be allowed to go to the Turkish government.

False Nazi War Rumor Brought Artistic Cure

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—(AP)—A false wartime rumor that the Luftwaffe pilots had by all means that false rumors of their pilots stimulated American research which eventually produced Curtiss and A-1.

Dr. Edward C. Zuckerman, a biochemist of the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., told the story today. He disclosed, B. C. Gardner, at the recent 132nd annual meeting. While recognizing problems relating to atomic and hydrogen bombs, he said, "I found a good many healthy and reassuring savings of the vast number of Americans in all walks of life."

Canada's Economic Prospects Reviewed by B of M President

B. C. Gardner Sees Country's Dynamic Growth Comparable To United States After World War

RESOURCES, DEPOSITS, PASS TWO BILLION MARK; SAVINGS AND LOANS AT RECORD-REPORTS GORDON BALL

A parallel between Canada's present industrial potentialities and those of the United States in the years following World War I was drawn by the president of the Bank of Montreal, B. C. Gardner, at the recent 132nd annual meeting. While recognizing problems relating to atomic and hydrogen bombs, he said, "I found a good many healthy and reassuring savings of the vast number of Americans in all walks of life."

Turning to business conditions in Canada, he said, "I am considering the financial requirements of our customers. The number of concerns that have shown stationary or declining profits on a substantial increase in volume of business, I think, is appreciable to draw attention to the fact that the business of businessmen by businessmen of their 'break-even' points."

Small Business Taxation Examination of the problems of B. C. Gardner, said the speaker, indicated the need for a taxation policy which permits the small business to pay its taxes on a basis of its profits. He said, "The number of concerns that have shown stationary or declining profits on a substantial increase in volume of business, I think, is appreciable to draw attention to the fact that the business of businessmen by businessmen of their 'break-even' points."

Canada's Dollar Dilemma The B of M president reviewed the many problems created by the dollar shortage. While Canada is not living beyond her means, he said, the inability to convert dollars into U.S. dollars creates a difficult problem. He considered the broad trend of the Canadian economic development logically to point to a closer balance in trade with our nearest neighbor.

Discussing Canadian attempts to remedy the underlying imbalance of trade, Mr. Gardner said that our dollar position limited our capacity to export and our ability to import. He said that our dollar position limited our capacity to export and our ability to import.

Turning to the question of world economic order, Mr. Gardner stated that the concept of an international economic order has lost its reality, and for many people it is not an ideal. He deplored the restrictions and impediments introduced which rendered ineffective the "new" order of economic relations through the processes of the market place.

He said that currency devaluations, the speaker considered, were a "long stride toward realism," but he expressed doubt that the new order of economic relations established by "governmental fiat" could reflect actual conditions. He said that trade expansion might well be encouraged by the administrative build-up of a strong range or variation in exchange rates, cushioned perhaps by a stabilization fund designed to prevent violent short-term fluctuations. He went on to suggest that the International Monetary Fund's free exchange rates should now be re-examined in the light of experience.

Mr. Gardner suggested that the ultimate goal of economic policy should be the development of a strong economy capable of functioning "on its own." The necessity or raising standards of production and efficiency in the face of the difficulties of balancing the accounts with the dollar area was generally acknowledged.

He said that "that will require huge additions and improvements to the plant and equipment." Was the necessary capital likely to be forthcoming, he asked, under conditions wherein the weight of public burdens "devitalized both the ability to provide and the incentive to invest the capital that is the lifeblood of productive efficiency?" He wondered, too, about the effects of the addition to the national income of industry.

Mr. Gardner said in conclusion, "There is a vast reservoir of energy available for recovery in the industrial sector which must be tapped to improve its position in life, which stimulates adaptability and initiative and encourages the development of new products and markets. The great challenge of the present is to create an environment in which these fundamental and powerful forces may once more be put fruitfully to work."

General Manager's Address In his address to the shareholders, Mr. Ball referred to the transfer of four million dollars from the profit and loss account to the reserve fund as being due to the continued growth of our deposit liabilities to the public.

The general manager reported that the bank had received its first time in the history of the Canadian bank, savings deposits, and that the bank was deeply conscious of the fact that it was possibly an custodian of the nation's money.

General manager said high regard to the loyalty, intelligence and efficiency of the B of M staff and to the bank's contribution to the welfare and progress of its members who the bank keeps under review. He said, "I am abundantly satisfied with the success of the staff training course, and concluded by recording his pride in the quality and spirit of our staff in every branch and agency of the bank at home and abroad."

'Irish Bill' Eddy Flattens Benny Geary in 3rd Round

By Dick Beddoes
"He beat me with my own punch." That was Benny Geary talking. Geary, the quiet-spoken little Negro who found out last night that boxing's comeback trail is no glory road.

For Irish Bill Eddy, a fidgety, pocket-size warrior from Yankee land, nudged Geary into oblivion at 2:15 of the third heat in their scheduled 16-round go.

Eddy weighed 126, Geary 142.

PAID OFF ON $2,400

A crowd of 1,900-odd paid $2.00 to see Eddy battle Geary's anatomy with left hooks, landing them with the apocalyptic regularity of their lightning.

And while referee Johnny Smith called it a technical knock-out, there isn't any doubt the lightning was the first round. He was the first round. He left hand probed Mr. Eddy's jewels, plugging up points and keeping the latter at long range.

Lightning struck the first time early in the second round. Eddy threw punches from all directions to the jaw and midsection, finally dumping Geary for seven. And before the canto was over Geary went down for rounds of two and one.

GEARY BATTLED BACK

But as the bell the Wildwood Wrestler seemed to recuperate, as he peered Eddy with the right-hand three times.

Geary continued his right hand assault in the third. And that was his undoing. For his timing was bad and Eddy beat him to the punch with left hooks, dropping him in succession for three, four and nine counts.

Five seconds before the bell Eddy brought that left hook to bear for the last time on Geary's chin. That was enough.

Geary slumped to his knees, mumbling desperately "I'm OK, I'm OK." But it's just as well they stopped it right there.

It was just another night for Eddy. He fights as often as most people eat and tonight he battles one Al Davis in Seattle.

But after being charged with running out on Geary two months ago last night's conquest must have been a great satisfaction to him.

CARD WAS GOOD

The supporting card was generally good, producing four KO's and a single decision.

Hand-punching Gordon Gray from Viking got the crowd's thundering applause. Clint Murphy pinned Jimmy Ego flashed great timing to administer vicious lacing to Stan (Taffy) James, scoring a KO in the third round.

Joe Kallis, the journeymen middleweight who has appeared on local cards as often as his keeper Shute in the last 12 months, kept moving Floyd Briggs, Edmondson, (fourth round).

Six round semi-final: Joe Kallis, Edmondson, KO'd Floyd Briggs, Edmondson, (fourth round).

Six round semi-final: Joe Kallis, Edmondson, KO'd Floyd Briggs, Edmondson, (fourth round).

Four round preliminary: Gordon Gray, Viking, defeated Clint Murphy, Calgary.

RESULTS

ROOKIE JACK McLEOD GETS 'WARM' WELCOME

NEW YORK, Dec. 6.—(CP)—New York Rangers of the National Hockey League yesterday suffered their 37th injury of the season.

Jack McLeod, rookie centre and right wing, from Moose Jaw, suffered a broken nose in a practice session. The 19-year-old McLeod, reported receiving $17,000 to the end of the 1960-61 season, played his first major-league game Sunday and gave an impressive performance.

Meanwhile, Dr. Vincent Nardiello reported that sophomore defenceman Al Stewart was hospitalized no later than Thursday. Stanley suffered a severely strained right ankle against Maple Leafs in Toronto Saturday night.

Despite the absence of Stanley, Rangers still have five defencemen, including Guy Kyle, last season with Regina Caps of the Western Canada league.

'Fighting Irish' Label Becomes 'Crying Irish'

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 6.—(UPI)—Sideline photographers who did a little eavesdropping said yesterday that Notre Dame's 'Fighting Irish' might be more aptly named the 'Crying Irish.'

It was one of the many comments which poured forth in the wake of the 27-20 squeak victory Notre Dame scored over Southern Methodist Saturday. Although the Irish shut finished their fourth consecutive season without a defeat, setting a new record, their detractors were many.

One veteran photographer, who roamed the sidelines in front of the Irish bench in pursuit of his duties, said, "Why those guys were crying at every decision of the officials, and not just the ones even the fans thought might be in error."

IRISH-OUT-SQUAWKED

"SMU got as many bad breaks as the Irish on decisions, but they were way behind on the squeaking."

Southwest conference coaches who saw the game from the grandstand were not overly impressed by the Notre Dame night.

Blair Cherry of Texas said he didn't think Notre Dame could keep up a pace if it played a full Southwest conference schedule. He pointed out that the Irish were played almost to a standstill by an SMU team which had lost three conference games this season.

Frank Leahy, coach of the South Bend, team which now has gone 30 games without a loss, told his players yesterday, "Go to church and thank God for your victory over Southern Methodist."

SMU FORMATIONS 'BAFFLING'

Leahy admitted the new spread uncovered by SMU, especially for this game, baffled his team. But he was quick to add he never thought Notre Dame would lose. Leahy hung over with his third touchdown to tie the score at 20-20.

Matty Bell, SMU senior, admitted he thought at this point his team might win. "But it just was not in the book," he gushed, he added.

There was a strange parallel between the game Saturday and Notre Dame's last game of the 1960 season. In 48 the Irish were unbeaten in their final contest, and heavily favored to win it. Yet they were tied by Southern California.

Inside Hollywood

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD—(AP)—Elizabeth Taylor is learning that the life of a movie star can be bitter as well as sweet. Her education has come during the last few months. Her two "engagements" plus her other romantic doings have made her the target of critical comments by columnists, comedians and commentators. It has been "open season" on Elizabeth Taylor.

"If I had known it would have been like this," said the star's attractive mother, "I never would have let Elizabeth go into pictures. The situation has us so worried that we both are sick about it."

As an example, she cited a column item that Elizabeth was making a slightly apocryphal statement to crooner Vic Damone in the Moscabos.

"Why, she was only a Moscabo have times," Mrs. Taylor equated on the "A Place in the Sun" set. "One night we took her there after Jane Powell's wedding. And she was there with friends and once she saw the first show and Vic brought her home by 11:30."

Far from being a night owl, as some have reported, Elizabeth has been allowed to go out only on Saturday night. Working girls have permitted her to go out more often, said Mrs. Taylor. "Because we thought it would be good for her. After all, she's entitled to some enjoyment."

Mrs. Taylor said movies have become too much a part of Elizabeth's life to take her from it, although the family has discussed that.

"I have even seriously considered going back to England," she said. "Elizabeth was back there to her American parents."

Working Girls Are Tops With Poor Man's Gable

By Patricia Clary

HOLLYWOOD—(UP)—Buddy Bae, former boxer, who now bears the title of "the working girl's Gable," feels the same way about working girls.

"Working girls make the best wives," Bae said emphatically. "They have none of the ruthless ego, temperament and guile you find in actresses and glamour girls."

The glamour girl he recently married is an exception, he added. "Most of them are spoiled scoundrels too obsessed with their own importance to concentrate on a man," he said.

Bae, who has started a new career as a night club crooner, thinks a working girl knows enough about a dollar to go easy on spending.

"She appreciates a man for himself and a decent movie," he declared. "Instead of dragging a guy to a night club where the check is $25."

Further, Bae reports, a working girl:

1. Is interested in you, not your bank account.
2. Dares to fall really in love, instead of being a good-digger seeking a meal ticket.
3. Knows the value of a dollar and doesn't take it for granted when you spend some.
4. Is more interested in people and the world.
5. Never is scatter-brained.
6. Is prompt, neat and well-groomed.
7. Never puts on airs.
8. Appreciates the security of marriage.

Despite all these virtues, however, Bae is trying to make over a few working girls into glamour girls. He's conducting contacts on his nightclub tour to pick the nation's number one working girl. "I already have a deal to let screen tests to the winners," he said.

Lurid Tales Dirt Comics Are Barred

Highly-Colored Sex Reports Thrown Out As Code Is Amended

OTTAWA, Dec. 6.—(BUP)—Highly-colored reports of sex crimes could make newspapers liable under the newly-amended criminal code as well as publishers of obscene literature and crime comics, it was learned today.

An amendment to the code, providing two years imprisonment for persons convicted of publishing or selling obscene literature, pictures, or crime comics was passed unanimously in common yesterday.

A high government source said newspapers could be prosecuted if provincial attorneys-general found such stories were obscene or that they offended good taste. He said it would be up to the courts to rule on the question of what this would be "a difficult process."

IF FOR PUBLIC GOOD

The amendment read: "It shall be a question for the judge whether such acts are such as might be for the public good and whether there is a pressing need to restrict the public good required; but it shall be a question for the jury whether there is or is not such a pressing need."

The source said the obvious defence of such a report would be the issue to the public as an exposure.

It appeared meanwhile, that lurid tales of passion, sex and crime had had their day in Canada.

The criminal code amendment, approved by all parties in the commonsense, stated that anyone was liable to two years imprisonment if convicted of publishing, selling or distributing obscene literature, pictures, models or any disgusting object or any indecent exposure.

EXCUSES BARRED

"You learn to come in and hang up your hat—or coat, if you're a lady of the press—and start pounding out the copy."

There's no time or patience in the life of a city editor for dawdling or temperamental or alibis or excuses, she found, and a reporter who doesn't learn that before starting work never has the chance to discover the fact.

GIVE DESCRIPTION

The new amendment described crime comics as any books or publications which substantially comprised matter depicting pitorially the commission of real or fictitious crimes.

Persons found guilty of such actions would be prosecuted unless they could show that their actions were for the public good and that there were no excesses in the acts, the amendment said.

It stressed that ignorance of what was being printed, published or sold would not be accepted as a defence against prosecution.

Would-be Sob Sisters Given Word of Advice

By Jack Metcalfe

HOLLYWOOD—(UP)—Those hopefuls who plan to board the golden gravy train by writing could do far worse than heed the advice of a girl who, with the aid of a typewriter, is well on the way to earning her first million.

At this successful miss, Allen Leslie, put it:

"First learn to be a good newspaper hack, then refine your talents by grinding out soap operas."

Miss Leslie hastened to add that she has no intention of smothering either the Fourth Estate or the day time radio serial act.

"They're both darned good schools in which to prepare yourself for lusher fields," she said.

In fact, it might still be working in either of them except for one thing—a bigger pay check.

Her recent movie checks include Columbia's "A Mother for May" and co-authorship of the 20th Century-Fox hit, "Father Was a Real Bad Guy."

"I'll have to admit, however, there is a little more to success than just learning to meet a daily deadline," she confessed.

If there weren't, Hollywood would be jammed with reporters-turned-popular-screen writers, and no one would be pointing out newspaper copy."

U.K. Ballet Company Is Smash Hit

OTTAWA, Dec. 6.—(UPI)—The Sadler's Wells Ballet earned an enthusiastic ovation from a capacity audience last night in one of the best engagements of its two-month North American tour. And the company, which gambled previous dollars on the trip, will go home with a pocketful of hard currency.

When it arrived the Sadler's Wells Company was little more than a name in North America but it didn't take them long to gain a reputation as the finest ballet group in the western hemisphere.

The company directors had boys with the idea of a North American tour for years but they had considered it a toss-up whether they could fill all their North American bookings let alone make their expenses.

AN ANGEL

The British Arts Council backed the company with $50,000 for the tour but the trip has been so successful general manager Herbert Hughes is talking of "unpredictable" profits. Performances have been sold out almost everywhere.

The audience included the Governor-General and Viscountess Alexander, the United Kingdom High Commissioner Sir Alexander Chatterbox, Lady Chatterbox, top government officials and members of the diplomatic corps.

In New York the company took a record ballet gross of $256,000 in a five-week run. In Toronto $75,000 in mail-orders was returned a week before the first performance. For one Ottawa performance $30,000 was returned.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Long-Absent Goodies
Here for Xmas Eating

By Bea Thrifty

Lavishly laden Christmas board will feature exotic delicacies this year... delicacies long absent from our local shop shelves.

I was happy as a greedy little goblin to find a mouth-watering display of newbies taking head-of-the-class position on display counters. Tasty temptations like green turtle soup, stuffed crabs, authentic Russian caviar are available now.

Green turtle soup has a subtle flavoring of sherry to enhance its rich goodness.

This is an import from that big, bad, bold city of New York, in the United States... which even the peasants enjoy turtle soup.

If you plan to delight your guests and shock your long-suffering budget you'll march right down to this special import and buy a jar of soup for 95c.

California sunshine and sweetmeats are available in the perfectly delicious stuffed oranges selling with this assortment of luxury treats for $1.49 per jar.

Orange slices treated in a supportive fashion also sell for $1.49 per jar.

As palate-pleasers, the orange jobs do right well.

Debonair nonchalance is the attitude to wear while eating truly delicious Russian caviar.

It's been many a moon since we've tasted an import of this time. We'll take a middle-class mercenary bait to our palate and just mention that two kinds of said caviar are to be had at prices $1.49 and $1.25 per small jar.

Feeling like the heavenly realm of the authentic luxury home?

Overseas we have tiny jars of antipasto delights at scintillating prices of 35c and 80c per jar.

Soothe those aching appetites make the long lonely journey from Italy... to our pleasure.

The sauce makes sense, too... try them!

Danish darlings of the kitchen never blink an eye when handling a dish of smoked fillet of eel in sauce oil... or with scrambled eggs.

Just to well be able to offer the men in our lives the same sort of consideration... we now have Danish imports of same extremely edible eats. They sell at 45c per jar when filled with teams up with sardine oil. When in company with the scrambled eggs... sell for 50c.

These sell at a nice round sum of six for gherkins and 75c for onions.

Flavor favorites like tomato and mushroom sauce will enhance our Christmas party appetites.

Orient, spices add the important "ziz" to this gem.

Vinegars flavored with tarragon, eucalypt, garlic, per se... and add priceless perfection to your culinary efforts.

Fillet of anchovies for 35c, red and yellow peppers in wine sauce, spaghetti, tomato sauce, green turtle meat... what's this year's exotic business comin' to anyways!

Steno's Songs
Lead to Comedy

VANCOUVER (CP) — Comedy Betty Phillips was a stenographer who liked singing. So a year ago she gave up her job in favor of singing.

She still likes to sing, but with one of the busiest schedules of any singer in the city she says her old job was the easier one.

"In a number of ways singing is harder than going to an office and being there eight hours."

Although having been in the same cover for only a year, Betty has recently taken a program of her own. It enjoys one of the best spots on the air, being piped into New York during early evening.

Guest appearances with the Vancouver Symphony Orchestra and participating in Theatre Under the Stars productions also have been on her schedule.

During her first season with Theatre Under the Stars a city-wide outdoor theatre, which presents summer musicals, Betty graduated to leading roles.

She's continuing her studies here and doesn't intend to leave Vancouver until she's "sure of the next step."

To take a too-strong taste from the lead and add a cap to the rice is a golden brown, cool and strain.

It is in no way responsible for the status of a divorcee and there is no reason why any man should not pay her attention if he wishes to.

But I think just to keep the record clear, that if the woman wishes to go on with the life of a single woman, she should get a divorce. That will prevent her from being the subject of gossip.

Your friend's age, too, should make a difference in your attitude toward the subject. If he were a young and inexperienced boy you would have more sympathy for him than for a man who is ten years older than she.

But a man of 30 is old enough to know his own mind and possibly realize that any man who says he is likely to change his mind is

YOU NEVER ARE TOO OLD to take up some sport. Bouncing might be a possibility for you at this time of year.

WHY GROW OLD

Sports Add Zest To Living at Any Age

By Josephine Lowman

I do not know why so many women think of sports as something for very young people, because there are all sorts of sports for all ages. These add zest to living and build health and a youthful outlook.

Take ping-pong, for instance, you can play it at any age and you get much more exercise playing it than you imagine. If you play a fast game, which you could develop, then there is something in it for you.

In your own yard, badminton can be played at any age. If you are old, you can still play at almost any age.

Swimming can be taken down the years with you. Tennis is a game for the young unless you have played it constantly and kept in condition for it. It is not advisable for the average woman to play it.

If you have been very irregular in your indulgence in sports, you can still enjoy horse-riding, golf, and many other sports when you start.

There is something about sports when the play spirit is added to outdoor exercise, which is most invigorating. You will feel younger than you did before you tried one.

I hope you are not timidly sitting down and leaving off the sports which are sensible for your age and physical condition. These outdoor play and competition games do something for you; they are relaxing and fun and give you exercise in the great outdoors, which is a great booster and builder-up of vitality.

Wayward Aussie Girls Given to U.S.

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — Sydney has never been so free of problem girls or had so few women offenders against the law as now.

Sgt. Lillian Armfield, who is retiring after 34 years in the New South Wales police force, says:

"My reason? Many of the city's wayward girls get themselves United States husbands while U.S. troops were here during the war and have left Australia."

Sgt. Armfield was referring to the great majority of Australian war brides, who were "real outlaws."

With a heart opening, Mrs. Sherman would trump it. Take two clubs of trump and then play a club to the king. On the ace of clubs discard a losing spade from dummy.

If a club was opened in the hand, all Mrs. Sherman had to do was to cash the ace and king of clubs, drawing a spade from dummy and the contract would be made.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Golden Rule Always Works With Children

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Most mothers come a cropper when they try to get their children to help them with the housework. When the child is so little that he seems "in the way" he is eager to help; when he acquires the know-how, he is too busy with his own affairs.

Mrs. M. S., who has managed this successfully, writes, "My girls are 15, 11 and 7 years old. One of your readers mentioned the lack of consideration in her children and it reminded me of my mother who always accused my brother and me of lack of consideration."

"My children are just the opposite. I always try to make housework and cooking seem like something done as a matter of course."

"I never refused their help and let them try anything they thought they could handle. I never bossed them but helped if they got tired and asked help when I got tired."

"My eldest girl can cook anything from a printed recipe and does almost all our baking. She makes her own clothes and helps me with the family mending."

The 15-year-old has just got over her fear of the gas stove and has limited her cooking to ice cream, jam, marmalade and things which need no cooking. She is starting to branch out into eggs, coffee and heating canned foods."

The little one helps me with the canning, packing the cold fruit in the jars. They all keep their rooms picked up, wash dishes, set and clean the table and have time for play, reading, a paper route, shell jewelry and whittling."

The little one has just been promoted to dishes. Coincidentally she got a raise in allowance to 20 cents a week. She squeaked a little about dishes but after finding that she only has to wash for two weeks, then clean and stack, she is quite enthusiastic."

"I do not believe in expecting a child to be grateful or to think she owes us something. If this were a game of chance, she would have won long ago. If she would know that she was the one to be grateful, that her children were alive and anything new they would do would be so much easier. If you consider them, they will do the same for you, as far as they are able for their age."

Deep Sea Diving Risky Occupation

There are many divers in a hard and dangerous occupation. Deep sea diving is a perfect, planned, controlled, and planned occupation. They are sent down to examine ships, which have been wrecked, and to recover treasure. It is a dangerous occupation, and it is the reason why so many divers die.

Also in their daily routine, divers are sent down to the bottom of the sea to recover treasure. They are sent down to the bottom of the sea to recover treasure. They are sent down to the bottom of the sea to recover treasure.

MANY DANGERS

There are always in danger of accident. In the tropical sea, sharks, octopuses and huge eels, which are the enemy of the diver, are always in the water. There is no escape, for among the dangers that await them, there is the danger of the sea itself.

Uncle Wiggily's Bedtime Story

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily, perched on the back of Mr. Whitehead, the Polar bear, looked at Billie Blue Jay. The pay bird was still selling in his harsh, loud voice:

"Wattle is in a hole. He wants you to help him out."

"Billie is dead to do that, Billie," answered the robin gentleman. "Where is the hole that Wattle is in and why can't he get out himself?"

"The hole is on top of Christmas Tree Hill," answered the bird. "And the reason your friend Wattle can't get out, is because the hole is too deep."

"That's too bad," said Uncle Wiggily. "You've been up to the top of the deep hole."

"Ah, no! Wattle, ah!" answered the North Pole bear. "But it's not the hole that's the trouble. It's the hole that's the trouble. It's the hole that's the trouble."

"Especially out of holes," yelled the blue Jay bird. "Yellow and I'll fly on ahead and perch in the tree over the hole that Wattle is in."

"I'm glad we have Wattle with us this morning. He can handle that volunteer sausage as he'll be said Uncle Wiggily."

"Ah! Not afraid of Uncle Wiggily," growled Mr. Whitehead as he thumped through the snow with Uncle Wiggily on his back.

"I hope you are not getting tired of carrying me on your back, Mr. Whitehead," said the blue Jay bird.

"Ah, Uncle Wiggily, say, Ah!"

Tomorrow is coming to meet you in a terrible place — about 1,000 miles an hour at the equator or about 800 miles an hour if you are in the latitude of Washington, D.C., says the National Geographic.
